Library Information

Library Refurbishment

We are currently in negotiations to refurbish the library. This will involve decorating the whole library, acquiring new furniture and adding a wireless network and laptops to our current computer provision. To enable us to do this we will need to close the library for two weeks – watch this space for further details and dates of closure.

e-books

The library has negotiated access to the following book sites

Kumar and Clark Clinical Medicine at www.kumarandclark.com

Royal College of Physician's Medical Masterclass at www.medical-masterclass.com

For advice on how to use these sites please contact Valerie Haigh on ext 5753

ADITUS

Over the last 6 months, the North West Health Care Libraries Unit has been researching the developing information needs of health and social care practitioners to deliver:

- Patient-centred services
- Clinical governance
- Life-long learning

As a result, ADITUS (www.aditus.nhs.uk) is being redesigned and developed to not only provide a link to external information but also to provide a northwest-wide, interactive Health Knowledge Base.

In 2003, ADITUS will provide

- Condition Communities – where professionals involved in the care of specific conditions, such as diabetes, can gather information together, develop and share best practice and give each other support.
- Professional Communities – where professionals groups, such as GPs can share and gather information, discuss lifelong learning and other issues.

It is also intended that each professional community will have a 'careers' section to help with workforce planning and recruitment.

- Automatic Alerts – health and social care practitioners will be able to register for information alerts on their chosen subjects which will then automatically email them with any new information that becomes available.
- E-groups, Virtual meeting rooms and Bulletin Boards
- Links to other Health Sites– including such sites as NHS Direct
- Health Databases and Information Resources – such as National Core Content,

Currently, regional groups have bought a variety of health databases, such as Medline and Embase, and made these available to all NHS staff and students within that area. A national group was set up in 2002 to pool some of the current funding and procure health databases and other relevant material (such as full text journals) so that all NHS staff and students in England would have access to the same information. These resources can then be made available through existing portals, such as ADITUS.

The ADITUS website is being developed as the “one-stop-shop” for health and social care for EVERYONE in the northwest.

The North West Health Care Libraries Unit are pleased to announce the launch of

ADITUS

The New Northwest Web Of Knowledge

on 10th February 2003

- From the 10th February 2003, ADITUS will have a different look
When you access www.aditus.nhs.uk you will see
  - a page border with various new options,
  - a paragraph explaining what new ADITUS is all about
  - a copy of the current portal options for accessing databases & journals

- All the databases and journals currently available to you will still be available

- There are 2 ways to log on:
  1. As you've always done! - Select which resource (e.g. database) you wish to access, and enter your user id and password.

  2. Use the login boxes on the left hand panel of the page using your ADITUS username and password. Then when you select any resources with the same password you will automatically be logged on.
